Invacare to demonstrate joint working for improved clinical practice at TVS 2018

The 2018 conference of the Tissue Viability Society (TVS) will be held in Newcastle's Kingston Park on 25-26 April. The Conference agenda covers all areas of tissue viability, including politics, research & innovation, leadership, clinical practice and multidisciplinary working. As a sponsor of the TVS, Invacare is excited to be exhibiting at this educational event, show casing the latest range of pressure redistribution products including the clinically proven Maxxcare Heel boot for prevention and treatment of heel pressure ulcers.

This year, Invacare's Think Pressure Care team in partnership with healthcare professionals are pleased to have 3 poster presentations accepted. All the posters have a theme of improving clinical practice and sharing experiences of implementation of innovation, using the Invacare pressure redistribution range. The posters will be on display in the poster gallery.

Invacare's clinical specialist for pressure care will be on hand to offer advice on Invacare's innovative solutions for pressure area care and free samples of the Maxxcare Heel boot will be available to TVNs wishing to evaluate this latest addition to the Invacare range. Visit Invacare on stand 18 in the main exhibition hall.
